"Overlooks" Jersey Joe

Lesnevich Year's Best In Fleischer Ratings

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Despite the furor created by Jersey Joe Walcott's 15-round stand against champion Joe Louis Dec. 5, Editor Nat Fleischer of Ring Magazine yesterday named Gus Lesnevich, the light heavyweight champion, "Fighter of the Year" in his third annual review of the world's boxers.

In a copyright article appearing in the current issue of his magazine, Fleischer gives Walcott credit for having been a "rocky year's action," but contends that Lesnevich, in coming back from a long hitch in the United States Coast Guard and winning four important fights during 1947, did more for any other man "to improve the standing of the sport."

However, as to Walcott's myriad supporters, Fleischer gives the Camden, N.J., veteran a set of "special awards." First, he has awarded Jersey Joe a medal for an outstanding performance, and second, he has bracketed Walcott with Louis in group 1 among the world's heavyweights. All the others are in group 2.

"Despite all the excitement over the verdict to Louis over Walcott, despite the claiming of the title by the Jerseyman, despite the betting of the crowd over the decision, the Ring does not rate the Louis-Walcott affair one of the truly great battles of 1947," Fleischer declares. His choice for "fight of the year" was the second Tony Zale-Hooker (Graziano) middleweight championship bout in Chicago. For "Round of the year" Fleischer chose the fourth between Louis and Walcott, in which the challenger set Louis down for a count of seven.

For the first time in the history of boxing, Fleischer points out, the world's top three heavyweights are all from the same club, general manager Jack Butterfield of the Fort Worth Rangers came up with Mickey, pride of the Shrine boys, who is ready to make a move out of the opposition at the moment.

When goalsie Red McAtar suffered a broken nose in an ice hockey game with the Omaha club, general manager Jack Butterfield of the Fort Worth Rangers came up with Mickey, pride of the Shrine boys, who is ready to make a move out of the opposition at the moment.

"Wicked Lady" Prefers Laugh Not Whistles

By MICHAEL O'MARA
LONDON, Dec. 18 (CP)—Margaret Lockwood, Britain's latest feminine drawing card, was today in a somewhat calculated to evoke delighted whistles from the girls in the audience.

Despite Miss Lockwood's usually competent acting, however, the "Wicked Lady" is largely a dig at the men—and it's their support that really holds the picture together.

The change will be a pleasant one for both her and her admirers, who were subjected to a pretty grueling routine in making through her last picture, "Ward Healer."

The film "Ward Healer" is a "light comedy" by studio craft.

Eight Years Active Canadian Arms Now On Peace-Time Basis

OTTAWA, Dec. 29. (CP)—The most important change in the Canadian arms transfer from a war-time to a peace-time basis, army headquarters here said last night in a review of 1947 developments.

This was accomplished last Sept. 20 when the army, as well as the navy and air force, was ordered to "stand-down" after eight years and one month of active service in the Second World War. "In successfully completing the change-over, Canada's position as a peace-time nation is strengthened. It will take some of her war-time Allies three, five and 10 years to accomplish," the review said.

During the year, a series of functions common to the three services were amalgamated under a single service head. This was especially true of medical and dental services, hospital accommodation, transport services, identification, barracks, provost and public relations duties.

Strength of the army decreased to approximately 15,000. It was 21,476 a year ago, but about 9,000 soldiers were due for release, and since have left the army.

Today the army is "somewhat short of its manpower requirements, but recruiting continues satisfactorily," the review added. The present recruiting campaign, which began last Sept. 30, will continue until next March.

While married soldiers were hard hit by housing shortages, the government's reconstruction program to produce 1,400 housing units at a cost of less than $200 each "far outstripped itself."

Approximately 4,500 families of servicemen have been provided with living accommodation and during the year construction of permanent married quarters was started in a number of camps across the country.

The year saw a new deal for the ex-servicemen. This involved complete re-organization of the ex-servicemen's association, the ex-servicemen's union, and the ex-servicemen's council, all of which had been merged into one organization.

The army's activities in the Arctic were not as "widespread nor as general as many people expected," but considerable work was accomplished.

The only winter maneuvers of any importance carried out by the active forces were the "Haines" month-long job by the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in the Whitehorse district of the Yukon Territories.

The reserve force also held a few winter training exercises. Two new Canadian ranger companies, with headquarters at Inuvik, N.W.T., and Whitehorse, were organized in the fall. Recruited from woodmen, trappers, miners and settlers, they will provide guides to troops operating in their areas.

At Rivers, Man., considerable progress was made at the joint air training school where eventually it is planned to train all Canadian air force units, together with navy personnel, in combined air operations.

The re-organization program saw two of the four main branches of the army merged into one, the headquarters of the army being moved to the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont., and Royal Canadian Victoria were to be operated on a three-service basis.

In addition, a three-service national defence college, comparable on a smaller scale to Britain's Imperial Defence College.

May Develop New Weed Killer

CHICAGO, Dec. 29. (AP)—A bush that wages chemical warfare against its neighbors has yielded a new chemical to slow plant growth, and possibly new weed killers, the American Association for the Advancement of Science was told Saturday.

The plant is a low, dome-shaped desert growth called Halimolobos. Dr. James Bonner and Reed Gray of the California Institute of Technology found that its leaves give off a chemical that prevents other plants from growing near the bush. They isolated this chemical, and then made it synthetically. When fed in tiny amounts to the roots of alfalfa, clover, tomato, pepper and corn plants, but did not affect barley, oats, sunflower, or grass, they said. Slightly larger doses killed the plants.

The chemical (3-allyl-6-methoxy-2-pyridyl) is called amb. Compounds like it, which have selective killing action, hold considerable promise as weed killers, the scientists said.

Abbey Of Monte Cassino Arises Slowly From Ruins

By JOHN TALBOT

ROME, Dec. 29. (Reuters)—The task of reconstructing the great Benedictine abbey of Monte Cassino, heavily damaged in one of the toughest battles fought by Allied troops in Italy, is well under way, although it will be at least five years before it is complete.

Reconstruction has been undertaken by an international committee under chairmanship of Don Lidofero, Abbot of Monte Cassino.

Four times this great abbey has been damaged in its 1,400 years but never has the damage been so extensive as that wrought by Allied bombs. It is estimated that more than 12,000,000 lire (about $25,000,000) will be needed to restore the huge building.

But the sarcophagus containing the remains of St. Benedict had a miraculous escape. An unexploded bomb was found lying close to it. One part of the monastery which did escape is the little tower in which St. Benedict had his cell and where he spent most of his life.

In accordance with the rules of the Benedictine Order, the first work in the reconstruction of the abbey is to rebuild the church so that Mass can be celebrated. Thus the first "room" to be rebuilt in the shattered abbey was the crypt and here for some time past the Benedictine community of Monte Cassino has been able to celebrate Mass every day.

The first work on the ruins of the abbey was carried out by a squad of 100 Catholic German prisoners, all volunteers.

Under the constant watch and guidance of Don Lidofero

Sports Writer Fatally Injured

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., Dec. 29. (AP)—William Jardine, 33, Philadelphia Inquirer sports writer, was injured fatally yesterday while skiing at Mt. Pisgah about two miles north of here. Robert Demers of the ski patrol said Jardine apparently lost control going down the beginners slope, missed the trail and plunged over a bank, landing on a rock pile.

Rea, Italian workmen were called in, and using the stones of the old monastery, the new walls slowly began to rise.

But the walls are rising all too slowly. Already some $1,000,000 has been spent from the Italian government's war damage payments. It is hoped that eventually the government's contribution may be increased to equal one-third of the total cost of reconstruction. Other two-thirds must be found from Roman Catholics throughout the world.

Mother Saves Two But Dies Herself

HAZLEDEN, Ont., Dec. 29. (CP)—After assisting two young daughters to safety through a second-storey window, Mrs. Beulah Bennett, 30, was burned to death early yesterday as she sought to rescue a third as fire destroyed a frame farm building 2½ miles north of here. Bodies of mother and daughter, eight-year-old June, were recovered in the smoldering embers.

In all, seven persons made their way to safety when the blaze started in the kitchen and then spread rapidly. They were Elmer Bennett, 39, husband and father of the victim; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett, 65 and 58, respectively; his sister, Elva Bennett, 14; and his three children, Alan, 12; Keith, 8; and Kathleen, three.

With the flames raging in the upper part of the structure Mrs. Bennett lowered Marian and Kathleen through a bedroom window and they jumped into the arms of their father and grandfather. She then turned to fight the dense smoke in rescue June, in bed and screaming for aid. Apparently she was overcome before reaching the child.
